The Sub-Fund is rated 6 due to the nature of its investments which include the risks listed below. These factors may impact the value of the Sub-Fund’s investments or expose the Sub-Fund to losses.

Particular risks not adequately captured by the risk indicator include:

- Investment risk is concentrated in specific sectors, countries, currencies or companies. This means the Sub-Fund is more sensitive to any localised economic, market, political or regulatory events.
- Currency Risk: The Sub-Fund invests in other currencies. Changes in exchange rates will therefore affect the value of the investment.
- The value of equities and equity-related securities can be affected by daily stock market movements. Other influential factors include political, economic news, company earnings and significant corporate events.

- Counterparty Risk: The insolvency of any institutions providing services such as safekeeping of assets or acting as counterparty to derivatives or other instruments, may expose the Sub-Fund to financial loss.
- Liquidity Risk: In difficult market conditions, the Sub-Fund may not be able to sell a security for full value or at all. This could affect performance and could cause the Sub-Fund to defer or suspend redemptions of its units.
- Derivatives Instruments: Derivatives and other financial techniques used substantially to obtain, increase or reduce exposure to assets may be difficult to value, may generate leverage, and may not yield the anticipated results. All of this could be detrimental to the performance of the Sub-Fund.
- Concentration Risk: While the assets of the Sub-Fund will always be invested in compliance with the diversification requirements provided by applicable law, the Sub-Fund will be invested in a concentrated portfolio of companies which could increase the risk of losses in adverse market conditions.
- Hedging risk: The currency hedging used to minimise the effect of currency fluctuations may not always be successful. Investors may have exposure to currencies other than the currency of their units.
